General Report

The citizens of Stoddard can be justly proud of their school. Few schools of its size have the equipment and conveniences for good teaching that yours has.

Standardized tests show that your pupils are making normal progress in their studies.

The president of one of our leading industries said recently that in this age of rapid change the best thing a school can do for its pupils is to teach them how to study. The years of formal education are very few for the most privileged and the people who do not learn during these years how to discover things for themselves are soon lost in the race to keep up with our times.

Mrs. Lane is unusually gifted in her ability to teach children to study. The success of your graduates in various high schools and colleges bear this out.

In closing I would like to express my appreciation for the kindness and cooperation of the School Board, the teacher, and the citizens of Stoddard.

Respectfully submitted,

J. HAROLD MOODY,
Superintendent of Schools
